

The diagram illustrates a quantum device structure. A central region contains a hexagonal lattice of red and orange atoms, with a dashed line indicating a boundary. This central region is surrounded by blue hexagonal atoms. The entire structure is enclosed by a black outline with a semi-circular top. A dashed line also indicates a boundary within the central region.